

My Transgender Date was founded in 2013 by Cyril Mazur, a French trans-oriented man with a background in web development, and Maki Gingoyon, a Filipina trans woman, beauty queen and activist. They had a common goal in providing the first decent and safe space for transgender dating. With 10 years in service, My Transgender Date has now become the number one dating site for trans women.

(Cyril and Maki)

The reason for My Transgender Date's tenure and success lies in its team of mostly transgender women. Being part of the community, they have firsthand experience and knowledge of what trans women need in a dating site. With that goal, My Transgender Date continues to make innovations to make the service accessible to many regardless of where they are in the world.

My Transgender Date Launches Dating App

My Transgender Date has exciting news for its users: they have launched their dating app! This app has the same database as its website to make it easier for members to use the site on the go.

Much like the website, My Transgender Date's app is a welcoming space where trans women can easily connect with men who are attracted to them. The app comes equipped with a great chat system and a dedicated team of moderators who are available 24/7 to ensure pleasant and respectful interaction among its users.

Users can explore the vast database of profiles from the My Transgender Date website. There are thousands of profiles waiting to be discovered, giving members plenty of opportunities for meaningful connections.

(Part of My Transgender Date Team with Maki)

The same team behind the My Transgender Date website is responsible for developing the app, so users can expect the same high-quality experience across both platforms. The app is now available for download on Android and iOS devices. Because My Transgender Date always finds new ways to improve its user experience, new features will soon be added to the app.

My Transgender Date Continues Its Mission

My Transgender Date's dedication to helping trans women find true love shines through in the team's efforts to improve their services. With their unwavering commitment to providing a welcoming and safe environment, they continue their mission to revolutionize the transgender online dating experience.